

Marina's Russian "Pal" in Dallas Had Worked For Lehman's

Just before prestate, a Council investigator reviewed the files of Georges Von Mohrenskold and found that he had worked for Lehman Trading Corporation as a "consultant."

Although the file had been studied many times, we had failed to note this fact in past articles on Von Mohrenskold, who used the alias "George de Mohrenskold."

The Lehman's had sponsored FDR. Lehman money helped LBJ become senator and vice president. When LBJ's criminal relative, Elton Johnson, died while serving a life sentence at the Louisiana State penitentiary the body "disappeared." A Council investigator eventually learned that a New York firm claimed the body. The firm was a Lehman subsidiary which quietly removed the remains from New Orleans and took them to an unknown destination.

The Council prepared four years ago a Bootstrap Report (Search for a Master Assassin) which suggested that Herbert Lehman made the decision that JFK had to die. Lehman himself "died" between the time JFK was shot and the time JFK was buried. Johnson dropped everything to attend the Lehman funeral but disdained funerals of great Americans who died during that era.

The Warren Commission—including Leslie King (alias Gerald R. Ford)—was then assembled to halt internecine warfare between Power Factions, and to give America a cock-and-bull story.

(More startling facts on Von Mohrenskold may be found on Page 7).

Probe Needed of Contact Number In Slaying of Martin Luther King

Staff Report

Most of the Smokey Bears who wear Louisiana State trooper uniforms are satisfied to pass out a few traffic tickets and drink a lot of coffee. They don't plan to assassinate anyone, nor file false affidavits. Nor work for the notorious ADL. Nor run Louisiana State and Shreveport politicians.

But unfortunately unless an independent probe of the Louisiana State police is conducted for the purpose of firing the "bad guys," then the "good guys" are likely to suffer from the accusations against this controversial police force.

Here are a few facts and conjectures which together suggest that a fair-minded, independent probe is needed to clear the air. If there was any connection between police in the New Orleans area and the Martin Luther King assassination, this should be brought to light immediately instead of hidden from the public.

Sinister individuals who were involved in the Kathy Ainsworth slaying should also be examined, and if guilty of supporting the murder-for-hire program, should be removed from the public payroll and appropriately punished.

Here are the 71 facts and 11 conjectures from years of research by The Councilor. Judge for yourself if the smoke hints of flame.

1. FACT: Prior to 1963, police in the New Orleans area had not been heavily infiltrated by the New Orleans ADL and were opposed to Red activities.

2. FACT: At the invitation of the Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities, New Orleans police during the JFK years raided the Perdido Street headquarters of the Communist Front Southern Conference Education Fund. The raid was planned by Jack Rogers, who on the advice of consultants, did not tip federal agents in advance.

3. FACT: When the raid came off, Leftists had had no opportunity to hide tattle-tale material. Police recovered a bonanza of correspondence showing Martin Luther King's connections with New Orleans Reds.

4. FACT: The Perdido Street headquarters of this group was property historically owned or controlled by the Lehman Family.

5. CONJECTURE: The Councilor, based on 12 years of investigation believes—but cannot prove conclusively—that Senator Herbert Lehman was the man who decided in 1963 that JFK had to die.

6. FACT: Correspondence recovered in the Perdido Street raid indicated that Martin Luther King was not universally popular with the Reds who helped bankroll him. Some of them regarded him as un dependable.

7. FACT: The same raid turned up evidence that Mrs. Edith Stern had provided some of the money for the communist front organization.

8. FACT: Mrs. Stern's father, Julius Rosenwald, was labeled as the top financier of the Communist Party USA. This accusation (or identification) was made by Congressman Cox of Georgia who placed the statement in the Congressional Record.

9. FACT: Mrs. Stern's brother-in-law, Alfred Kaufmann Stern, was indicted in New York as a Soviet espionage agent, and fled the U.S.

10. FACT: Mrs. Stern's son, Philip Stern, (with Adam Yarmolinsky) played a part in the gagging of Major General Edwin Walker after Walker tried to tell his troops in Europe the truth about Communism.

11. FACT: Mrs. Stern's grandfather, after moving from Europe to Baltimore, relocated in a house across the street from Abraham Lincoln's home in Illinois.

12. CONJECTURE: Some researchers believe—but cannot prove—that the grandfather played a supporting role in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln 111 years ago.

13. FACT: Mrs. Stern's New Orleans broadcasting station, WDSU, provided publicity for the pre-assassination antics in New Orleans of Lee Harvey Oswald.

14. FACT: Based upon letters between key Reds seized during the Perdido Street raids, and upon later information, The Councilor was able to successfully predict on Sept. 30, 1965, the assassination of Martin Luther King.

15. CONJECTURE: We interpreted various clues to mean that Martin Luther King eventually would be more valuable to the Reds as a dead martyr than as an un dependable living smoothie.

16. CONJECTURE: There is probably an assassination apparatus in New Orleans which involves powerful persons and seems to have compromised police forces in the New Orleans area since about 1963.

17. FACT: The plot to kill JFK involved at least three persons living in the New Orleans area in 1962.

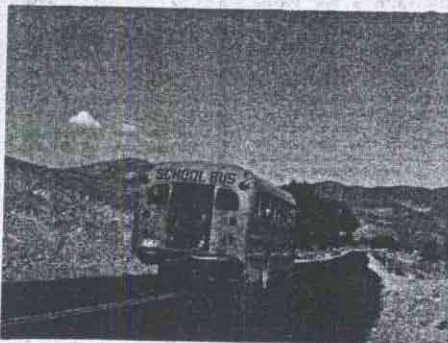

18. FACT: The assassination of David Ferrie in New Orleans hurt Jim Garrison badly in his efforts to prove that Ferrie was involved in the killing of Kennedy.

19. CONJECTURE: A full and proper investigation of the strange and very timely death of David Ferrie was not made.

20. FACT: Garrison was left, after the Ferrie death, with only Clay Shaw who seems to have played only a small, supporting role in the killing of Kennedy. Garrison was unable to get a conviction of Shaw on his first charge after Shaw lied about knowing other persons involved in the Kennedy killing.

21. FACT: Garrison later tried to bring Shaw to trial for perjury, because he had proof that Shaw lied.

22. FACT: The Councilor also (Next page, Please) questioned by police officers who knew their identities and knew the ownership of the car. But they were seized with a great flourish and showmanship in the presence of cameras of CBS-TV.

73. FACT: Viewers throughout the United States saw this abduction but were told that it was an "arrest." They were told that both boys were charged with "possession of a stolen weapon!" The incident cast a shadow on the integrity of The Councilor.

74. FACT: There is no such charge in Louisiana. Louisiana law does not permit a person to be arrested for possession of stolen property unless there is evidence that the accused person knew the items had been stolen. The weapon was not stolen, and the abductors knew this. The abductors further showed their own disregard for law and order by claiming both youngsters had possession of the same pistol!

75. FACT: The young man and his companion were thrown in jail and were not even permitted to complete a phone call to an attorney.

76. FACT: In violation of the 8th amendment and Louisiana law, a "judge" set a $5,000 excessive bail. This was further set in complete absence of a charge! The judge cannot be sued or prosecuted for this crime because of so-called "judicial immunity."

77. FACT: Before they were jailed, the abductors were questioned extensively and co-operated completely because they thought a mistake had been made. One witness said that the mysterious Meridian, New Orleans agent XYZ, MENTIONED ABOVE IN PARAGRAPH 35, WAS NEARBY DURING THIS

STRANGE INQUISITION.

(Note: The innocent young man has filed a suit for damages against six abductors who signed false affidavits against him. The case has not yet been set for trial.)

78. FACT: Editor Ned Touchstone questioned top officials of the Louisiana State police to ask if the mysterious agent, XYZ, was on the state payroll. His full name and background were used in this inquiry. The top officials said that no such man was on the police payroll and that they had never heard of him.

79. FACT: Editor Ned Touchstone then placed a person-to-person telephone call to the mysterious agent at police intelligence offices and was told that he did work for the police but was not present at that moment!

80. FACT: The pistol stolen from the young law student has not been returned despite repeated requests. It stands as proof that it is the same pistol described in the federal registration papers and in receipts!

81. FACT: Meanwhile, the patsy in the Martin Luther King assassination has hired a new lawyer who wants to find out WHO in New Orleans was the contact for James Earl Ray.

82. FACT: In March, 1976 — just two weeks ago — Signet Books (1301 Ave. of the Americas, NYC) issued a new book entitled "Government by Gm-play." On page 46 of this book there is a statement that Ray's new lawyer dialed the pre-assassination contact number in New Orleans. The book said the lawyer was startled when he was answered on the other end by a trooper at a Louisiana state police barracks!

CONCLUSION

Isn't it about time that fair-minded Americans took the time to find out what is going on in New Orleans? And who is paying the tab?

CIA claims it took this photograph of an unidentified white male in Mexico City Oct. 4, 1963 as part of its surveillance of "Lee Oswald." Clearly the person isn't Oswald. An English attorney, Michael H. B. Ed-dowes, has furnished The Councilor with some startling information about this alleged Mexico City trip — information to be revealed in a future issue of this newspaper.

The Truth About "Law" in Africa

WASHINGTON (WO) — Without support from renegade whites (and Red Chinese), there would be no effective negro opposition to white rule in Rhodesia and South Africa. Renegade whites not only supply the arms, training and material needed to oppose rule by other whites, they also provide the necessary philosophies. The concept of personal liberty under law is totally unknown in all tribal countries of Africa. In fact, no "law" in the Western sense exists at all.

This is an important truth that one does not find printed in the New York Times, Time, or Newsweek, nor does one hear it on NBC or CBS.

Hm-mmmm

WASHINGTON (WO) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller had admitted that he is a victim of dyslexia. This inherited disability causes those who suffer from it to have difficulty in handling words and symbols, which often appear in reverse or upside down to their eye.

Although unrelated to basic intellectual capacity, those who suffer from it confuse left and right, up and down, tomorrow and yesterday and right and wrong. Hm-mmmm.

SPECIAL OFFER-FOOD COSTS

The Councilor has made special arrangements with Security Food Systems for our subscribers to obtain high quality storage food at the old prices. This is a major savings not only when compared to supermarket prices but also in relation to the 1976 inflation factor. This food is packed to last for years, and whether prices go up another 25 percent or 250 percent, you will have a locked in "hedge" against inflation, plus an available supply of good food in event of a general food shortage or breakdown of the economy.

With food prices going up at 16% per year—and possibly even faster—it makes good sense to have a part of your "Savings Account" in storage food. Compare that 16% figure to the amount your savings account is now drawing. [Of course, you need some ready cash in the bank, and we don't urge you to withdraw everything and put it in food.]

Storage food is food that is nitrogen packed, with the water removed by a process that preserves far more of the natural flavor that you find in water-packed canned goods at a Supermarket. Will last for years and years.

With storage food, you have a choice. You can eat some of it now to save the high cost of groceries, in many instances saving 30%, 40% or even 50% when all factors are considered. You can save it until next year, or 1978 or 1980 when food prices are likely to be much, much higher than now. Or, you can save it for a nationwide food shortage, truck strike, or a time of riot and disorder.

With storage food in your attic or in a closet or under the bed, you can feel a bit snug about the money you are saving, and a great deal more secure about what your family can eat in a time of crisis.

THE ABC's OF STORAGE FOOD

- Be prepared in event of a currency collapse, truck strike, civil disorders or climatic food shortages.
- You can eat some of it right now, and save tremendously over your supermarket costs for food. Many of our friends are cutting food budgets this way.
- Taste is usually better than water-packed supermarket foods.
- Not as nutritious as fresh garden foods but at least as nutritious as supermarket foods.
- Excellent hedge against inflation. Beats money in the bank a mile.
- Easy Storage. G. Convenient. H. Reduces shopping trips and thus saves gas. I. Quick and easy to prepare. J. Plenty of protein.

Search Launched in Illinois For What Is Said To Be A Coin More Than 10,000 Years Old

KANSAS CITY — Friends of Ned Touchstone in Illinois and in the United States Congress are being asked to help solve a mystery.

At stake: Alleged evidence which suggests that an advanced civilization lived in what is now Illinois (or visited the area) at some very ancient time.

Investigation could establish:

- (a) That such evidence does exist.
- (b) That such evidence may have existed 100 years ago but has been lost, or
- (c) That the whole yarn is unadulterated bunk.

Last week Mr. Touchstone was studying the notes of a midwest congressman who has been dead three quarters of a century, when he ran across very strange claims. The man in question, Rep. Ignatius Donnelly, had correctly predicted the Russian Revolution, serial warfare, and 20th century financial trickery. Therefore his notes were being searched for clues of other correct predictions, or of special knowledge of Illuminist forces and their activities.

In those notes he found mention of a "copper coin" which allegedly was found 114 feet under ground at Lawn Ridge, Marshall County, Illinois. It was said to have come from an artesian boring which passed through strata of various clay and vegetable matter to a two foot thickness of "red hand" at the 112-114 feet level.

Congressman Donnelly suspected that the "coin" was the handwork of an advanced civilization of great antiquity, which had been — he conjectured — wiped out by a great catastrophe. Here are the "clues," in each instance being the statement of persons now deceased, and therefore unavailable for cross examination:

(1) Information about the "coin" was supplied on Dec. 4, 1871 by a Mr. W. H. Wilmot of Lawn Ridge.

(2) A famous geologist, Professor Alexander Winchell, claims to have seen the "coin."

In order to add more adventure to The Councilor and to attract new readers who do not yet know about strange phenomena in the political arena, this paper will probe a number of significant "mysteries." Most of them have an important bearing on other topics covered by The Councilor, but, frankly, our honest probes into these mysteries will be "bait" to attract and awaken sleepers that we don't yet reach.

We are honest in this effort. The Councilor is edited for people with inquiring minds and high I.Q., but even if we can't get all such persons to agree with us at present, we know that most of them will come to our viewpoint once they have read the facts. Besides, America needs a broad-based honest newspaper.

He made this claim in his book, Sparks From A Geologist's Hammer, page 170.

(3) Three persons who said they saw the "coin" at the same time are said to have claimed possession of it. Unfortunately their names were not supplied by either Donnelly or Winchell.

(4) Apparently one of the three emerged as the single owner.

(5) This single owner allegedly sent the object to the Smithsonian Institute for examination and a Secretary Henry referred it to a Mr. William E. Dubois.

(6) This Mr. Dubois is said to have presented the result of his study of the "coin" to the American Philosophical Society.

(7) It was also said to have

Taxpayers Will Hear More Lies About Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — This year — and the next — will probably find the politicians lying as usual about the amount of money used for so-called Foreign Aid.

The gullible will be told that the Foreign Aid appropriations will be about $5.3 billion. Discussion will be focused on this $5.3 billion.

Truth: Other foreign aid appropriations will bring the total to a scandalous $20 billion a year — most of it going to lands where the divinity of Jesus Christ is under constant attack.

LONDON — The divorce rate in Communist Russia is now even higher than that of the USA. It has climbed from 3% in 1950 to more than 30% in 1972.

been examined by a Professor J.P. Lesley.

Even with this much background Mr. Touchstone might have taken very lightly the Donnelly-Winchell claims except:

(a) There have been additional discoveries in the 20th century, after both men died, which tend to support the amazing thesis of an ancient civilization.

(b.) Mr. Touchstone's examination of drawings of the so-called "coin" showing figures on them virtually identical to pre-historic carvings found in Australia and various other places around the Earth in very recent years. It is extremely unlikely that anyone living in the 1870s could have copied drawings thousands of miles away which were not known to exist at the time.

(c.) The copper in the object was described as "milled" and the figures on it were placed there by acid etching. Both of these techniques are known to aboriginal inhabitants of Illinois who occupied the area in historic times, or even in the centuries immediately prior to recorded history.

(d.) There have been reports of other strange objects found at great depths in Whiteside County (50 miles away); Stark County, Ohio; San Joaquin Valley, California; Petite Anse Island, Louisiana; and near Memphis, Tennessee.

With these clues, it should not be difficult to find more mention of the "coin." Perhaps it is hidden in the recesses of some museum by a curator who doesn't understand what he has. Perhaps it is in someone's attic.

Or maybe there never was such a coin.

We hope to find out and report back to our readers.

Information which will help every American taxpayer breathe a little easier!

Few Americans know it, but the U.S. Constitution protects them from many of the high-handed activities of the IRS. Unfortunately few lawyers understand exactly how to use the Constitution as a shield for protection against unlawful IRS activity.

One of the top legal minds in America (in the tax field) has prepared a concise, easy-to-read set of instructions for every American taxpayer. Other lawyers are getting copies for their files, but it is written for the layman.

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF FROM THE I.R.S.

The cost is only $2.00 for a set of these printed instructions, plus 25 cents for postage and packaging. Total: $2.25.

Or, if you want your lawyer or a friend to have a copy also, order 2 copies. Packet of 2 copies is only $4.00, plus 25 cents for postage and packaging. Total: $4.25.

(Note: Several reputable organizations and publications have urged taxpayers to shun lawyers when dealing with the IRS. That is because most lawyers don't seem to know how to deal with IRS. This lawyer does. If millions of Americans arm themselves with this information, they will break the Fear Weapon of IRS.)

Read About Council of Churches Crimes in "Red Hand in The Collection Plate" and of Other Efforts of Leftists to Steal U.S. Church Property

This report has been the most successful single publication ever issued by Councilor Research.

It provides PROOF of what many Christians had only suspected in the past—that Red Revolutionists were and are draining away untold millions of dollars through their infiltration of numerous denominations. This report calls them by name, tells what they do and how they do it.

It is probably the hardest hitting expose of the World Council of Churches and the National Council of Churches that has ever been printed. Every minister in America MUST read "Red Hand in The Collection Plate," whether or not his denomination is an affiliate of the NCC or WCC.

Certainly every concerned patriotic layman should have a copy.

If you think you have already seen ALL the important facts about Red infiltration of U.S. church denominations, you haven't unless you have seen a copy of "Red Hand in The Collection Plate."

Guessing Game For Political Observers Will Begin on May 1

May Day is the Red holiday. It was the birthdate of Iluminism, and later became a significant holiday for numerous anti-Christian movements including the communist hoar.

To mock the Rockefellers, Rothschilds, Lenins, Stalins, Weishaupts, Bilderbergers et al. The Councilor will officially begin to receive on May 1, 1976 entries from its readers their guesses on the "Guesswork Puzzle of 1976."

The subject of this first annual Guesswork Puzzle is: "WHAT STRATEGY WILL NELSON ROCKEFELLER USE IN HIS HOOK OR CROOK BID FOR THE PRESIDENCY?"

Entries will be judged on the basis of their correctness for the period July 4, 1976 through such time as Mr. Rockefeller actually becomes president or 1984. No points will be given for interpreting Mr. Rockefeller's role in removing Spiro Agnew or his part in the Watergate Affair. Those matters are history.

First prize has been posted by a friend of The Councilor. It consists of $100 plus 5 very revealing books about the very strange history of the Rockefeller Family.

Mr. Rockefeller's advisors have very cleverly sidelined him during the hectic time of nominations. By claiming that he is not a candidate, they have protected him from the spotlight of public opinion. But because of Mr. Rockefeller's commercial and communications holdings, the means exist for temporarily painting Rockefeller Red, White and Blue in a time of hysteria or crisis.

timely public indignation which might destroy such a plot:

1. He could at the last minute get the Republican nomination for vice-president, with Ford as front man and someone such as Carter as the straw-man of the Democrats. Then if Mr. Ford is elected, he can resign.

2. Or the same initial approach could be followed with Ford to otherwise vacate the presidency.

4. Rockefeller could sit out the 1976 elections as he did in 1972 elections. Then the sleeper vice-president could resign with Guess Who to be appointed and then move up to the No. 1 spot.

5. Or a sleeper vice-president could be removed in a Second Watergate with Guess Who as replacement, followed by promotion.

6. Or a sleeper vice-president could be otherwise removed, with a similar aftermath.

These are just some of the possibilities.

The "Guesser" who can guess closest to both the framework and to the details of such an ascendancy will be the winner.

The entries will be judged at the appropriate time.

MONTGOMERY — The Lehman family in slaves and cotton crop usury when they first came to this country in 1848, as the Red Revolution of 1848 in Europe was collapsing. During the terrible Reconstruction area, they controlled black legislatures (through Lehman, Durr & Co. in Montgomery and Lehman, Stern & Co. in New Orleans). Afterwards they founded the NAACP.

RAT INFESTATION

WASHINGTON — Since integration, filth in the public schools of Washington has increased to the point that school leaders have asked for an additional $100,000 to fight rats and cockroaches.

HUMPTY DUMPTY'S FISCAL INTEGRITY

MINNEAPOLIS — Senator Hubert Humphrey owed $900,000 from his old presidential campaign. So, he paid off in order to demonstrate his "fiscal integrity." He paid 4 cents on the dollar and defaulted on the other 96 cents!

Now he wants to be president so he can assure you that he can stand behind government bonds.

Herbert H. Lehman was the most powerful man in America when this photograph was made at the Polo Grounds in New York, April 27, 1958. With him is Eleanor Roosevelt who stood for him in getting American tractors, narcotics and war goods sent to Fidel Castro to "ransom" the Bay of Pigs prisoners. Lehman is believed to have sabotaged the Bay of Pigs operation through his New Orleans apparatus.

The LIGHT TOUCH

By Ned Touchstone

A colored reader sends us this yarn:

A Food Stamp Professor at Equal Opportunity University boasts to his class—

"We got to stand up for what's our black heritage. You take them communists. They trying to steal our Black Power salute. Them honkey skannals will clench their fists and poke them in the air, just like we do."

"But they lie, cause they say they invented the clenched fist salute. Black History teach us that 3,000 years ago our peoples in Africa invent that salute. They learned back then that if they don't clench their limbs, you fall out of the tree."

We are disappointed to learn that Jimmy Carter is Mr. Peanut. As a boy, we got the idea that Mr. Peanut wore a top hat and a monocle.

Shucks, all the glamor of this world is gone if Mr. Peanut turns out to be a toothy Georgian who looks like Eleanor Roosevelt wearing a pants suit.

Talk about slow mail, we got a letter last week with an 8 cent stamp on it. They couldn't charge postage due, because that was the correct amount when the letter was mailed.

We got a press release from the McGovernies last week that described Jimmy Carter as the "Hottest Thing in Politics Today."

That's exaggeration. The hottest thing in politics today is a jumper cable at Tuskegee rally for Jimmy Carter.

We know that the script doesn't call for Jimmy Carter becoming president, but — heaven help us — what if he does? With the buildup the Rockefeller media have given him, Jimmy would be a synthetic national hero in no time at all.

They might even want to put his picture on a coin, and that would be a first-class disaster. There would be no "tails" to such a coin. One of Jimmy Carter's faces would be on each side.

With a light-weight four-flusher such as Jimmy Carter in the White House, we would have to retire the American Eagle as our national emblem, and get us a buck-toothed domineer rooster.

We thought that the Democrats could never get lower than Teddy Kennedy, but with Jimmy Carter in their arsenal, they have proved their considerable versatility.

We received a package last week that had those Abe Lincoln postage stamps on it. But it was hard to recognize him. The package had been on the road so long that his beard grew past his necktie.

Which reminds us of the time Harlow Watts decided to make some counterfeit federal reserve notes. Harlow can copy anything, but he didn't have a picture of Jefferson or a bill to copy on the night he engraved his plates. So he had his wife, Zelda strike a pose and he tried to look at her and sort of etched Tom Jefferson from memory.

It wasn't a week later that the Treasury people caught him. His wife is a dead ringer for Abraham Lincoln.

Sometimes it's hard for an American to make a Frenchman laugh, but I succeeded. One of them asked me why Richard Nixon appointed Gerald Ford as vice president. I answered: "Because Gerald Ford is the smartest man we got."

WASHINGTON — One of the most knowledgeable patriots in America is Col. Curtis Dall. As an unsuspecting youth, he worked for Lehman Brothers in New York and hobnobbed with the Rockefellers. He was introduced to a captive of the Lehman, FDR, and later married FDR's daughter.

Since learning who controls America, and their sinister schemes, Col. Dall has worked diligently to alert the nation.

WARREN, Mich. — April 24 has been declared "Anti-Busing Day" in a resolution signed by Mayor Ted Bates, according to National Spotlight.

The Story That Almost No One Would Believe

LAMAR, Mo. — Richard Nixon had a drinking problem. Almost no one would believe it when Councilor staffers in 1972 warned of it.

Although Nixon fought a valiant battle to win independence from alcohol, he was not always successful. This was one of the best kept secrets of his presidential years.

A Councilor staff member was present at a Washington function when Nixon, as vice president, became exceptionally inebriated, and had to be taken away by his Secret Service detail. Only in his last days in the White House, under full attack from the Rockefeller Group, did Mr. Nixon sustain major losses in his fight with the bottle, however.

NEW ORLEANS — Members of the controversial Lehman Family lived in New Orleans, Montgomery and New York after coming to this country from near Frankfurt. During the Civil War they peddled bonds of both sides, and worked out elaborate schemes to "ransom" prisoners of war of both sides — cutting themselves the lion's share of the deal.

FT. WORTH — A famed English attorney, Michael H. B. Eddowes, has been here to gather information about conflicting identification data on the person or persons known as Lee H. Oswald. He told The Councilor that Oswald's mother has been receptive to his views that the older man who returned from Russia may not have been her son. The Councilor finds it difficult to believe that a mother would not have known her son, or would not have revealed earlier the presence of an imposter. Yet, there are some serious conflicts in the measurements and other data which need explanation.

Georges Von Mohrenskold Remains A Big Mystery in Dallas Events

EARLY RESEARCH BY COUNCILOR SUPPLEMENTED
NOW BY FRANK CAPELL

Editor's Note: In 1964, 1965 and 1966 The Councilor turned up considerable information on a mystery man who "befriended" Marina Oswald just before the assassination of John Kennedy. Oswald was apparently moved to Dallas as a patsy to be blamed for the shooting, as—reasoned The Councilor—it was fair to take a look at the friends surrounding the Russian, Marina, to see what sort of people they were. Von Mohrenskold was identified as "George De Mohrenskold" by the Warren Commission.

The mystery man had lived in Shreveport for awhile and we were able to pick up some of his trail here.

In January, Frank A. Capell, who with Ned Touchstone and a few other investigative writers are at the pinnacle of the profession, has added considerably to the amount of knowledge which patriots have of Von Mohrenskold's activities. The article below, by Capell, credits Hugh C. McDonald for some of the research.

The Councilor believes, from its 12 years of research, that the late Senator Herbert Lehman of New York [a] helped transform the old pre-fab OSS into the CIA, [b] helped sabotage the Bay of Pigs operation and [c]—with Eleanor Roosevelt—rescued the captives, and [d] was probably the man who made the decision that JFK should be converted into a martyr.

There is nothing in the Capell article which conflicts with our interpretation. The name that we have for the master marksman at Dallas was "Saul" or "Saulster."

By Frank Capell

A recent session of the Senate intelligence committee produced the revelation that President Johnson had become convinced that the KENNEDY (JFK) assassination was a plot and that the CIA was involved. Cartha D. DeLoach, a top aide to the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, testified that former White House aide Marvin Watson "called me and told me President Johnson called him and said he was now convinced there was a plot in the assassination." This adds another name to the list of persons unconvinced by the Warren Commission cover-up with its "lone assassin" determination. In fact, no one with the capacity for logical thinking could believe the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was anything else but a well planned conspiracy. A new book has revealed it to be just that and has detailed the story in a paid-assassin's own words.

"Appointment in Dallas," subtitled "The Final Solution to the Assassination of JFK," is the name of a paperback recently published by the Hugh McDonald Publishing Corp., 380 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017, and distributed by Zebra Books, which is controlled by Kensington Publishing Corp. of the same address. The book was written by Hugh C. McDonald (as told to Geoffrey Bocca) whose impeccable credentials make it impossible to consider the book just another one alleging the solution of the conspiracy in the murder of John F. Kennedy. McDonald was Chief of Detectives in Los Angeles County for 26 years.

McDonald's knowledge of the story of the JFK assassination came as a result of his selection by the Republican National Committee to head the security for presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater. It was in this capacity that he retained the services of Herman Edward Kimsey who had been a CIA official for a number of years and with whom McDonald had previously had contact. His concern for Goldwater's safety caused Kimsey, during a visit to Dallas, to relate to McDonald the story of the Kennedy assassination which he had been told by the person who claimed to have been the assassin. Kimsey identified the man as an individual McDonald had seen briefly when he had been in Kimsey's office in CIA headquarters. According to McDonald, he had dropped in to visit Kimsey at the CIA while he was attending the FBI Academy in Washington and, while there, saw this man when he stormed into the room to complain about everything going wrong in the Bay of Pigs invasion in which he had been hired (presumably by Kimsey acting for the CIA) to play a part. At the time Kimsey described the man as a "top assassin" who "works for a lot of people."

Bay of Pigs Fiasco

This encounter took place shortly after the Bay of Pigs (planned) fiasco in April, 1961 and made an impression on McDonald because of the cold viciousness of the man who made killing his profession. It was in Oct. of 1964 that his involvement in the plot to kill Kennedy was revealed in an incredible story which Kimsey said he would deny if McDonald told it to anyone. However, he told McDonald where to get his notes and files... "if anything should happen to me!" but after Kimsey's death the FBI and CIA seized his papers and McDonald was left with the story of a dead man and none of the corroborating notes he was promised. This seemed like the end of the line. However, opportunities presented themselves for McDonald to check into the matter further and finally, after the assassination of Kennedy, he had to prove or disprove Kimsey's story, a transcript of which was safely locked away in a safe deposit box.

McDonald finally located and met with the assassin, whose name he never discovered but whom he called "Saul." In a

A Strange Set Of Priorities

NEW YORK — In 1967 the FBI halted most of its efforts to identify and restrict activities of the KGB and other Red spy agencies. It blamed "lack of personnel" but at the same time it increased its personnel assigned to fighting white segregationists in the South! The Councilor revealed at the time that the FBI was spending 7 times as much of its appropriation to fight segregation as it was spending to fight communism.

London hotel in June of 1972 the story of the assassination of President Kennedy was told by the man who killed him and it agreed with that told by Kimsey. Professional killers do not have offices from which they conduct their business affairs but those wishing to avail themselves of their services find ways of contacting them and thus,

This is another view of the unidentified white male which CIA says it photographed in Mexico City 18 days before the JFK slaying. There was early talk by federal spokesmen that Oswald had been photographed in the Mexican capital by secret CIA cameras, but this clearly is not Lee Oswald or even an Oswald look-alike.

Saul was apprised of the fact that an individual was trying to get in touch with him. This man would not reveal his identity until he had a chance to observe him and from this Saul inferred that they had met before. The assassin let it be known that he could be contacted in Haiti and in the middle of May 1963 he went to Haiti and followed instructions to stay for three days within a certain geographical area. He stayed at the Hotel Iboele and at four o'clock in the afternoon of the second day he received a telephone call. He thought this was peculiar since there was almost no telephone in service at the hotel; one could reach the Pan American office but not much more.

Saul was told to meet the contact man at 7:30 that night at a private residence. It turned out that they had met before. During the training period for the Bay of Pigs invasion in Guatemala, a certain man had appeared occasionally at the camp site. It was whispered around that he was one of the American agents and he seemed primarily involved in a type of industrial sabotage. Saul, who was taking part in the invasion preparations, met this individual five or six times in Guatemala; as usual, names were not bandied about so he gave him the name "Troil." Even the Professional Killer was shocked at the enormity of the assignment offered him that night in Haiti to kill the president of the United States. He needed time to think about it and demanded $2,000 from the contact man to pay his expenses while he made his decision.

He thought about the man with whom he was dealing; he had been considered to be a CIA agent when he appeared in Guatemala. He thought about the house in which they had met in Haiti; it had an official atmosphere. The group the man was fronting for must be powerful and important, with unlimited finances. He accepted the assignment and named his price, $25,000 in advance and $25,000 when the deed was accomplished. From a suitcase full of money the man counted out a portion to hand Saul the advance payment. At that meeting the plan had not as yet been completely firmed up; the go-between was himself waiting for orders and when they came they were relayed to the assassin.

Thank you very, very, very much

Until the last issue of The Councilor arrived at the homes of our readers, we felt a rather frightening loneliness. Thousands upon thousands of wonderful people praised our work, and other thousands used it in broadsides, speeches, mass circulation books, magazines, sermons and other newspapers.

All of that was fine, but our loneliness was increased when we got notes from people which contained such messages as these:

"I certainly want to thank you people at The Councilor for opening my eyes. I know you risk your lives to do this wonderful work. You've inspired me so much that I am renewing my subscription for $4.00 and have decided to pledge $50.00 a month to Dr. B.—J.—H.—."

It didn't seem to occur to such people that $4.00 a year doesn't even pay for postage, paper, printing, mailing and office administration. Somebody has to dig up the facts, and when free copies of The Councilor are distributed, somebody has to pay for these.

No patriotic organization in America gets more mileage, more results, more dynamic information per dollar expended than does our little office. We get this extra mileage because our writers work free and we maintain unpretentious offices, and because we work instead of entertain visitors or swap despair. We are in a war to win.

We told you about our problems of meeting skyrocketing postage costs and some of you volunteered to stand with us. Your response has been inspiring.

Instead of our editor and a few dozen "old reliables" having to carry the load, we have now heard from several hundred wonderful folks who are willing to be counted.

We have firmly resolved to give the greatest amount of stewardship possible to each one of these dollars available to us. Maybe its because help has been rare; maybe its because we know that with one dollar we can open several eyes; maybe its because we know how hard some of you have worked for the money you sent. For these reasons, we accept, with a sense of renewed deep responsibility, the millions you have supplied for our Truth Warfare. God bless you.

hit him. Secret Service men would shoot at the presumed killer who would be visible from a window in a building across the street from where the real killer would be. The assassin would also shoot at the patsy and kill him and the killing would be credited to the Secret Service men and thus the story would end. The man who killed the president would be killed by those whose job was to protect him. The real killer would walk away, unnoticed and unharmed, to collect the rest of the $50,000.

The patsy was to be a young friend of the contact man, an emotionally unstable person who had recently returned from the Soviet Union. "Troika" got him involved in the plot by telling him he worked for the Government and that the Government was very worried about the president's disregard for his own safety. Lee Harvey Oswald, the patsy, would shoot at him merely to scare him into realizing he must be more cautious. The contact man said he would have Oswald go to Mexico City so that Saul might see the man who was to be his second victim. As promised, he arranged for Oswald to spend several days in Mexico City where he visited the Cuban Consul and the Soviet Consul and Saul carefully observed him. The killer remained in Mexico until two days before the assassination and then went to Dallas to get himself in readiness. All went according to plan except that the Secret Service men did not shoot at Oswald. This necessitated the implementation of the backup plan—a hit-man to kill Oswald after he was taken into custody. This was Jack Ruby who also conveniently died while in a jail cell, but not before he, too, spoke of conspiracy.

De Mohrenschmidt

Thus, the Warren Commission Report reveals the face of the president's killer as it also reveals through testimony the possible identity of the contact man. This man, together with his wife, was a close friend of Lee Harvey Oswald and his Russian born wife, Marina. This man had appeared in Guatemala at the staging area for the Bay of Pigs invasion within 48 hours of the invasion. This man had been in Haiti at approximately the same time as the assassin claims to have met his contact there. This man, whose entire background raises many questions, is George S. De Mohrenschmidt. De Mohrenschmidt's testimony and that of many persons who knew him reveals the following information.

George S. De Mohrenschmidt was born April 17, 1911 in Moser, Russia, the son of Sergis Alexander Von Mohrenschmidt and Alexandra Zopalsky. His mother was of Russian-Polish-Hungarian descent and his father of Russian-Swedish-German descent. His father was an important official of the Czarist government, a landowner and marshal of nobility, but was a liberal and outspoken opponent of the anti-Semitism which was prevalent at the time. He was arrested by the Bolsheviks in Minsk where he lived at the time but was released through the intervention of a Jewish Communist whom he had helped earlier. He was appointed by the Soviet government as adviser to the Minister of Agriculture, dividing up estates, a program of which he approved. He later fell into the bad graces of the Soviets and escaped to Poland, where he owned 5,000 acres of land, and became a professor and director of a high school in Wilno until 1930. When the Russians went into Poland, he moved to Germany where he died during World War II during an air raid.

George De Mohrenschmidt lived in Wilno, Poland, until he graduated from high school; he volunteered for the Polish Army and was sent to the military academy in Grudziadz. He remained there 1½ years, attaining only the rank of sergeant which he never rose above. He then went to school in Belgium and received a masters degree from the Institut Supérieur de Commerce à Anvers. Two years later, he obtained a Ph.D. in International Commerce from the University of Liege.

De Mohrenschmidt came to the United States in May, 1938, bringing a considerable amount of money with him. He had a brother, Dimitri, living on Park Avenue in New York City. George went to work selling perfumes for Chevalier Grade and then materials for Shumaker & Co. He became a close friend of Pierre Fraiss who was chief of export of Shumaker & Co. Fraiss was connected with French Intelligence and George later worked with him on behalf of French Intelligence, going around the United States gathering information on pro-Germans. He also arranged for preventing oil companies from selling to Germany and Italy. De Mohrenschmidt spent his first summer in the United States at Belpoit, Long Island, N.Y. where he became a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bouvier, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' mother and father. In fact he became a close friend of the whole family.

While working for French Intelligence agent Fraiss, De Mohrenschmidt met Lilia Pardo Larin through a Brazilian friend, a very wealthy man known as the King of Banans in Brazil, by the name of Dr. Palo Machado. George and Lilia started out for Mexico, making a stop at Corpus Christi and then going to Aransas Pass where they may have made some photographs and sketches of the Coast Guard Station. On the way back from the Pass they were stopped by FBI agents and their car searched. They finally arrived in

The picture at left purports to show Lee Harvey Oswald just before he went to Russia and the one at right was supposedly taken just after he returned. Their eyes appear to be the same, but there appears to be a discrepancy in hair texture, the shape and set of the ears, the shape and size of the nose, and in the general shape of the head. The difference in head shape, and in some of the distortions could be caused by type of lens, camera angle, and a possible loss in weight.

Mexico where they stayed nine months before De Mohrenschmidt was expelled as being persona non grata. He returned to New York and then went to Palm Beach, Fla., where he met Dorothy Pierson who became his first wife on June 15, 1943. After one year of marriage they were divorced. Their daughter Alexandra was born Dec. 25, 1943.

The peripatetic De Mohrenschmidt then went back to Texas where he obtained a masters degree in petroleum geology with a minor in petroleum engineering in the fall of 1945. He then worked for a year in Venezuela, returning to the United States to become assistant to the chairman of Rangely Field Engineering Co., operated by a group of 3 to 40 oil companies (Rangely, Colorado). He stayed there approximately three years and while there, met and married his second wife, Phyllis Washington. He met her in New York and she went to Colorado to live with him before they were married. She was the adopted daughter of Walter Washington, who was with the State Department. This marriage also ended in divorce.

Wife number 3 was Wynne Sharples who graduated from Columbia University Medical College and was a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family. They were married in Chestnut Hill, a suburb of Philadelphia, on April 7, 1951. De Mohrenschmidt went into partnership with his wife's uncle, Col. Edward J. Walz, in the Waldem Oil Co. In 1956. The couple had two children both afflicted with cystic fibrosis, a tragedy which encouraged them to form the National Foundation of Cystic Fibrosis in Dallas with Jacqueline Kennedy as honorary chairman. De Mohrenschmidt and his third wife were divorced after five years of marriage and she later married Dr. Robert Denton, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Bogoiavlensky

De Mohrenschmidt really began moving around then. He took a job in Haiti in 1956; visited and did work in Nigeria, Togolana, Ghana, France, Mexico, and Cuba. In early 1957 he went to Yugoslavia for the International Co-Operation Administration with a man named George Mitchell. His salary was paid by the State Department and his expenses by the Communist Yugoslav government. De Mohrenschmidt had met Jeanne LeGon in Dallas and she went to Yugoslavia also. She was married and not yet divorced. They were married in the summer of 1959. Jeanne's former husband, Robert LeGon, had changed his name which was originally Bogoiavlensky. They met in China where Jeanne's father was a director of the Far Eastern Railroad in China (Manchuria). They came to the United States in 1938, the same year De Mohrenschmidt arrived on our shores. Their daughter, Jeanne Elmor LeGon, changed her name to Christiana Bogoiavlensky and married Ragnar Kearton.

In 1960 De Mohrenschmidt and fourth wife, Jeanne, began a walking trip through Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama. The trip took about a year and they returned to the United States in the fall of 1961. They covered about 5,000 miles on the trip and then went to Haiti to visit an old friend of De Mohrenschmidt's father, Michael Breiman, who had been a wealthy man in Russia and was in the oil business. They stayed in Haiti for two months and returned to the United States

THE SEARCH FOR A MASTER ASSASSIN available to Councilor Subscribers ONLY

This is Bootstrap Report #1. It is sold to Councilor Subscribers only. (Other Bootstrap Reports have open distribution and may be purchased by anyone, but because of the sensitive nature of Report #1, we want it only in the hands of people who are intelligent enough and informed enough to properly assess the information therein.)

This manuscript was prepared by staff members of The Councilor based upon the rules of logic applied to documented evidence.

It names a former United States Senator from New York, a financier of "communism", as the man who PROBABLY made the decision that JFK had to die.

This study, too "hot" for the news stands, is based on eight years of intensive investigation by several of the finest analytical minds in the nation.

Step by step, it weaves a noose of logic about the prime suspect—A MAN NEVER MENTIONED BY THE DAILY PRESS AND TEEVEE NETWORKS AS A SUSPECT! Although the evidence does not convict the suspect, it is stronger in our opinion than the evidence on which many men have been sentenced to a lifetime in prison.

In addition, this report gives amazing information about the background of this strange politician—a man who "made" and "broke" U.S. presidents because he could call upon the same powers which installed communist governments in Moscow and other world capitals.

We know that you have read many wild and fanciful versions of the assassination of JFK, and you have a right to expect that this is "just another cock and bull story." So we make this offer: Read the manuscript and if you don't believe we are on the right track, return it for a full refund.

Of the thousands of copies we have sold of this report, only ONE copy has ever been returned for refund!

directly from Haiti to Louisiana where friends met them and drove them to Houston and then to Dallas. The friends were George Kitchel and Jim Savage, both connected with the Kerr-McGee Oil Co. In Dallas they took an apartment at 6628 Dickens Avenue and because they were running short of money Mrs. De Mohrenschildt took a job in the millinery department of Sanger-Harris, a large department store in Dallas.

While in Dallas, the De Mohrenschildts were part of the Russian community there, many of whom expressed low opinions of them in Warren Commission testimony. Paul Raigorodsky, a wealthy anti-Communist Russian-American, reported De Mohrenschildt to the FBI when he heard about his trip through Central America. He said De Mohrenschildt's reputation for truth, character, integrity and morals is bad. Mrs. Igor Vladimir Voshinin, who had known De Mohrenschildt since 1955, referred to the De Mohrenschildts as "fighting or aggressive atheists." She testified that George told her that his activities in Haiti and other trips back and forth were connected with the State Department and that the De Mohrenschildts had visited the Soviet Consulate in New York City before going to Mexico on their trip.

The Colonel's Niece

The De Mohrenschildts took an unusually deep interest in Lee Harvey Oswald and his wife, Marina, who was a niece of a Colonel in the Soviet K.G.B. De Mohrenschildt testified he first heard of the Oswalds through a friend, George Bouhe. George Bouhe and Max Clark were friends of Oswald and of George De Mohrenschildt and had a close relationship with the FBI. Clark was an ex-Colonel in the Air Force and an attorney; his wife was Russian. Samuel B. Ballen, an officer in several corporations, testified before the Warren Commission that "George De Mohrenschildt, a close friend of mine, told me that he and his wife had met an extremely interesting couple who had worked their way from Russia here to Dallas and Fort Worth, and that among other problems, that this fellow was in pretty desperate financial straits and needed a job, and would I be willing to see him and try to find employment for him." Mr. Ballen fixed the date of this request and his interview with Lee Harvey Oswald as either the latter part of 1962 or the very early part of 1963. Mr. Ballen also testified that Rags and Chris Bogotavlensky - Kearton (the daughter of Mrs. De Mohrenschildt and LeGon) stayed with him after the Kennedy assassination and told him that the De Mohrenschildts were publicly stating in Haiti that the FBI was responsible for the assassination of Kennedy and that Oswald was a patsy. They reportedly made these statements at a reception for members of the Foreign Diplomatic Corps in Port-au-Prince.

Denounced By Son-in-Law

Gary Taylor, who had been married to De Mohrenschildt's daughter Alexandra, was questioned by the Warren Commission about the relationship between Lee Oswald and George De Mohrenschildt and stated: "Uh - it's difficult to assess their relationship because there probably was more to it than I ever saw...I certainly think that they must have been closer than they appeared or the De Mohrenschildts wouldn't have been so active in seeing that they got along well." Asked "Do you have any opinion as to whether George De Mohrenschildt exercised any influence over Oswald," Mr. Taylor answered: "Yes, there seemed to be a great deal of influence there." Gary Taylor was asked if there was anything he wanted to say that might help the commission in its investigation and stated: "Well, the only thing that occurred to me was that - uh - and I guess it was from the beginning - that if there was any assistance or plotters in the assassination that it was, in my opinion, most probably the De Mohrenschildts." He based his opinion on their desire to return to Russia and live, their travel behind the iron curtain and their walking trip through Central America and said he was sure their presence at the Bay of Pigs training area was for the purpose of spying.

De Mohrenschildt's political orientation is evident from his own statements in the Warren Commission report. He testified he gets along well with Communists. "I see some good characteristics in Communism." He saw no good characteristics in the John Birch Society, however, and testified: "I don't like that movement. Personally I dislike it very much." His wife expressed the same sentiments.

The plot, as revealed in "Appointment in Dallas," was to have Oswald believe that he was working for the Government through the inducements of his "friend." The Warren Commission report states: "Oswald had no friends or close associates in Texas when he returned there in June of 1962, and he did not establish any close friendships or associations, although it appears that he came to respect George De Mohrenschildt." Discussing De Mohrenschildt, the report states: "Extensive investigation has been conducted into the background of both De Mohrenschildts ... By happenstance they were in Guatemala City at the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion...Upon arriving in Panama they journeyed to Haiti where De Mohrenschildt even-

The following description of OSWALD was obtained through observation and interrogation:

Height	5' 11"
Weight	160 lbs.
Hair	Dark brown

FBI agents, Carter and Fain, recorded the height of 5'11" on 26 June '62 in Fort Worth, and also the height of 5'5" for Marina.

From observation and questioning, OSWALD is described as follows:

FBI agent, Quigley, recorded the height of 5'9" on 10 Aug. '63 in New Orleans.

OSWALD was advised questions were intended to obtain his complete physical description and background. Upon repetition of the questions as to his present employment, he furnished same without further discussion.

FBI agent Clements recorded the height of 5'9" on 22 Nov. '63 in Dallas police station.

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Many students of the JFK assassination believe that there were two persons playing the Oswald role, with possibly one of the real Oswald and the other a look-alike. This could explain how "Oswald" was seen at two different places (according to witnesses) at the same time, and disparity in the various photographs.

Two FBI agents reported Oswald as 5'11" and two others reported him as 5'9". The Councilor has copies of numerous pre-assassination passports, military records and other documents which are divided between 5'9" and 5'11". We have none listing him as 5'10".

He actually became involved in a Government-oriented business venture... Although the Warren Commission report contains the FBI and other intelligence reports on hundreds of people, many not even remotely connected with Lee Harvey Oswald or the assassination, most investigation reports on the De Mohrenschildts are missing. This would lend credence to the possibility that he was working for the Government.

Hugh McDonald was asked why he did not go to CIA officials with his story instead of writing a book and answered: "I knew them and respected them but something was wrong. If I took the story to them it would be like bringing coal to Newcastle." He went on to say that it was obvious that they knew the assassin since they had taken a picture of him. It is also obvious that they must have had a file on him since he was employed by them during the Bay of Pigs operation. He would also have to be known to the CIA to be able to burst into a private office at their headquarters as he did into Kimsey's; he would have to be known to them to even get in the building. Lee Harvey Oswald's mother stated after the assassination that her son was connected with the CIA; this seemed ridiculous then but not so now that the activities of this secret agency are being investigated. Mrs. Oswald still insists that her son had some intelligence community connections she can prove, according to Dave Marston, personal aide to Sen. Richard Schweiker (R. Pa.) who heads a subcommittee exploring the probability of an intelligence agency cover-up during the Warren Commission investigation. There is a distinct possibility that, even if Oswald was not working for the CIA, someone was giving him the impression that he was. De Mohrenschildt also was working for the Government or giving the impression that he was.

Did the CIA and other intelligence agencies mislead the Warren Commission or did the Warren Commission deliberately mislead the American public?

PREDICTION COMING TRUE AFTER 6 YEARS

In the February 12, 1970 issue of The Councilor the editor predicted:

"A famous defense attorney stands to lose his personal reputation as the results of revelations yet to be made. If James Earl Ray is permitted to live."

Some of those revelations were made in magazine articles and books published in the last 60 days. Some more will be made in 1976 and 1977. The attorney is fast losing his reputation among persons who have learned about the shocking way in which facts of the James Earl Ray case were hidden and Ray was allowed to go to jail rather than face a trial.

The Councilor editor is still battling 99% in his predictions of coming events.

3. The other is: Talk. Talk. Talk. Tell as many people as you can what you read in The Councilor—so long as they are willing listeners and don't regard you as a nut. (The fact that the predictions of so many of us have come true is one reason that more of our friends are now willing to listen.)

RUGGED INDIVIDUALISTS BUILT AMERICA. This sturdy cabin, a type wrought by the hands of intelligent pioneers, is a lasting monument to the unconquerable souls of men who wrested our great land from the savages and built it to what was once the greatest economy on earth.

Don't curse the productive people of America nor the upper middle class who live in today's mansions. Their great grandparents taught honest values to children while living in homes such as these.

They also taught that a healthy family with ingenuity and ambition could reap the riches of the land and build greatness upon greatness. But there are also those in America who would want to go from savagery to greatness and back to savagery in six generations.

An Ancient Tradition Still Lives

CHARLESTON, S.C. — After the Civil War the Rothschilds and their agents financed the opposing campaigns of both the Democrat and Republican parties.

Augustus Schoenberg (alias "A. Belmont") ran the Democrat's party (and the campaign kitty) while heading Rothschild's banking firm in New York. At the same time, another group of Rothschild agents, the Seligman family, ran the Republicans' party and their campaign kitty.

Does this 110-year-old tradition of Rothschild control of U.S. elections continue in the present century? Consider these facts:

(1) Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in New York financed the Russian Revolution.

(2) Kuhn, Loeb & Co. was (and is) a Rothschild affiliate, operated by families whose ancestors lived with the Rothschilds on the Judenstrasse in Frankfurt, Germany.

(3) Lewis Lichtenstein Strauss, retired senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., raised an enormous campaign slush fund for Richard Nixon in 1968.

(4) Goldman, Sachs & Co. in New York is another international banking firm operated by families whose ancestors lived with the Rothschilds on the Judenstrasse in Frankfurt, Germany. This firm appears to be in league with the Rothschild interests.

(5) With great fanfare, the late Sidney Weinberg announced in 1968 that he would collect a big campaign war chest for Hubert Humphrey. At the time Weinberg was the senior partner at Goldman, Sachs.

(6) The day after Bobby Kennedy was murdered, Weinberg abruptly halted his fund drive and Humphrey was forced to fire one-third of his staff.

(7) Strauss and Weinberg joined forces in bankrolling the two presidential campaigns of Dwight Eisenhower, whereas others from Frankfurt's families put up the money for Adlai Stevenson. (Among them: the Stern-Rosenwald group.)

(8) Strauss and Weinberg both helped to finance Herbert Hoover's campaign in 1928, while another member of the Frankfurt families (Herbert Lehman) was bringing up a New York upstart, FDR, with Lehman-Rothschild money.

(9) LBJ was brought to power by Herbert Lehman.

(10) As a side note, it should be pointed out that the Rosenwalds, Schiffs and Lehmans all provided money to the Soviet Union and to the U.S. civil

Wallace Vote Is Split Four Ways

TALLAHASSEE — One of the reasons that George Wallace's huge public following doesn't show up in Democratic Party primaries is that his supporters are split into 4 different groups.

1. Self-styled "Conservative" Democrats.
2. Self-styled "Conservative" Republicans.
3. Members of the various American Party, American Independent Party and Independent Party organizations, each of which has a membership of its own.
4. Non-partyists. Many Americans simply do not participate in party primaries either because they do not realize the impor-rights revolution. The Seligmans set up the first radical civil rights organization in the U.S., the Urban League. The Weinbergs and the Sterns were big givers to civil rights groups and communist fronts.

(11) Heinz Stern Kissinger (alias Henry Kissinger, alias Bor) was the Frankfurt establishment's "man" in the JFK Administration. He remained their "man" under the LBJ Administration. Then the Republicans came to power so Kissinger emerged as a big Republican and was their "man" in the Nixon Administration where he helped cut the political throat of Mr. Nixon. Thence Republican Kissinger became their "Man" in the Leslie King (alias Gerald Ford) Administration. Many contemporary historians regard Kissinger as an errand boy of the Rockefeller, but the Councilor believes his connections are even higher in the Leftist hierarchy.

Conclusion: Draw your own.

tance of these or because they honor George Washington's warning to steer clear of political parties.

In a cross-section of American voters of more than 90 I.Q., Wallace will easily garner more straw votes than any other candidate for the presidency. The problems: Illiterates and functional illiterates also vote, and straw votes don't win nominations when those straw votes are scattered.

YOU MAY SAVE SOME LIVES

A Squeeze-Play unit is a tiny 1-oz. device you can carry in your hand, purse or pocket. It can be used to ward off attackers, shooting a stream of repellent into their faces. They will gag, cough and double up in pain. Tears will flood their eyes, and they may vomit.

No permanent damage is done to the assailant, but he is temporarily immobilized. A special dye marks him for police identification.

We believe this device is far more effective than tear gas. Hundreds of thousands of men, and women, keep Squeeze-Play within easy reach in these troubled times.

Big Brother Computers Are Prying Into Your Secrets

This column is reproduced exactly as it appeared in a Councilor printed and distributed August 3, 1970—nearly 5½ years ago. The reason we reproduce it today is to show that the seeds boldly planted by this newspaper do sometimes grow up and bear fruit.

Copies of the column were distributed to 7,000 Leftists and self-styled "liberals" in key positions in the U.S. Our tactic was to remind them that Big Brother government not only persecuted patriots in 1970, but that it could also keep tabs on the sex lives and personal lives of Leftists and "liberals." We also reminded them of a fact that some of them were beginning to suspect: That Leftists could be liquidated when they would be more valuable as martyrs than as living firebrands.

We knew that there were not enough loyal patriots and independents in Congress to end the infamous Cointelpro operation or the computer banks. We knew that it would be necessary to broaden the base of the attack.

We leave it to our readers to judge whether this campaign started by The Councilor in 1965 and prodded thus in 1970 was worth the postage and printing costs. You can breathe just a bit easier for our having made this effort.

We hesitate to use the inexact terms "liberal" and "conservative" in this column because they are so nebulous.

But in a general way a certain segment of America's people classify themselves as "conservatives" and another segment uses the "liberal" term. In most issues these two segments are opposed to each other.

But we know of three areas in which thinking "liberals" and thinking "conservatives" speak with one heart:

(1) The sacrifice of young men in a foreign war that our government does not intend to win.

(2) The use of political assassination to liquidate those who are no longer "useful" to the revolution (as in the case of Martin Luther King and perhaps the Kennedys).

(3) The compilation of data banks by the federal government, and the free exchange of information of this type between federal, state and local governments.

This Column is concerned at the moment with Point (3). We find that certain large universities—Princeton comes to mind—have faculty members who are working with federal and state agencies to build "data banks" that would make Joe Stalin blush.

Politicians at every level are cooperating in this sad invasion of privacy—often in direct conflict with federal and state laws that have not been repealed.

With today's computers, it is possible to feed information about one person, gathered from a hundred different sources, into central computers at Washington (or at Princeton). The social dreamers and planners who are building these data banks have ambitious plans that are suggestive of George Orwell's 1984.

The data bank plan calls for keying all of this information to Social Security numbers. They are already so successful that persons who do not have a Social Security account are forced to get one in order to perform the simplest tasks.

For instance, most states now require the driver to give a Social Security number in order to get a driver's license. No S.S. number; no drive. This is clearly a violation of the United States Constitution and many state constitutions, but we know of nobody who has challenged the unjust practice.

A Louisiana resident who for religious reasons—or other reasons—refuses to apply for a Social Security number will soon be a pedestrian.

Students enrolling in certain tax-supported colleges are informed that they cannot get dormitory rooms unless they take S.S. numbers.

Banks—most of them—key their savings accounts to S.S. numbers. Hundreds of federal, state and local agencies do the same.

Unless someone acts rather quickly, here are some of the probabilities before 1984:

(1) All tax and business records will be available to central computers, coded to a person's S.S. number. A business competitor can get a complete financial profile of the most delicate business information simply by having a contact in the data bank system.

(2) Driving records, records of divorces, legal separations, certain marital squabbles will be added to the "information profiles."

(3) School records (including opinions of teachers and administrators) will be fed into the data bank, along with records of sex questionnaires, and very delicate information gathered by schools and agencies who claim when they gather it that it is "completely confidential."

(4) Add to this the results of profile tests—such as the Iowa Test—given to children in public schools which show such things as prevailing political thinking within a home, number of firearms in the house, and whether the children love their father more than their mother.

(5) In some states identification photos are taken when applying for an S.S. coded driver's license. Military I.D. photos exist by the millions. All of this can be called out of the computer by simply punching the S.S. number for an index of the master file of photographs.

(6) The Data Bank dreamers hope also to get nude photographs of both males and females under color of "medical studies" but to date they have had only limited success in this field. But give them time. They can think of a lot of excuses.

(7) They also want key insurance and medical records for their data banks, along with information about hobbies, human weaknesses and political connections. Letters written to "advice" columns in the newspapers, tips from twisted clergymen and perhaps from a few renegade psychiatrists and marriage counselors are additional targets of the data bank planners.

Does the federal government consider its confidential files "sacred"? Not by a long shot. It is right now selling census information and other confidential information. It gives away to state and local agencies copies of those confidential income tax returns—in violation of the law.

The time is coming when an A.D.L. man or some other person with questionable motives can "tap" the data bank. They can learn more about a man's wife than he knows himself, acquire copies of her x-ray photographs, mug shots, and in a few instances, nude medical photos. They can learn more about a woman's husband than she knows herself. They can quickly learn intimate details of previous marriages and divorces. They can learn how to best get your last dollar. Or, if they don't like your politics they can get information to blackmail you or to get your notes at the bank called, or get a list of your customers to donate or sell to your competitor in business.

We recall that one great American (Gen. Edwin Walker) was sent to a federal "mental health" center on the basis of information in newspaper clippings that proved to be false when examined by trial juries.

Think how much more "Big Brother" can do to get you locked up at the Funny Farm if they know more about you than you know about yourself.

It's time that both "liberals" and "conservatives" join to destroy this computerized nightmare. Just for beginners, Congress and state legislatures should immediately provide penitentiary sentences for any federal or state employee who uses a Social Security number to code any information EXCEPT the Social Security account files. With that done, we can think of the next step. But if we can't prohibit this terrifying misuse of S.S. numbers IMMEDIATELY, the future is bleak for those who love privacy. Even those with no sin, no shame and no financial problems; if there be such in America.

Latest From The Bilderberger Front

WASHINGTON (WO) — In his own right, Prince Bernhard—now battling for his political life in Holland because of revelations of personal corruption—owns at least $12 million worth of Exxon stock. This figure is mentioned in Newsweek; undoubtedly this is the Bilderberg. As nominal chairman of the secretive Bilderberg Gang, Bernhard no doubt accumulated far more than that for his many services to the House of Rockefeller, and was "cut in" on many deals worked out in secret Bilderberg meetings.

If civilization is to survive, it must be under the unchallenged leadership of the type of people who created Western Civilization, and who supplied white "gods" (adventurers) as the bearded, round-eyed, long nosed, red and yellow haired leaders of the Inca and pre-Inca "civilizations," the Indio civilizations, the Mayan "civilization" and the pre-Artec "civilization."

THE COUNCILOR

Story on Civil War Origin Traced To Another Source

PARIS—For 13 years The Councillor has printed stories showing that the Rothschild Family probably created the U.S. Civil War to serve their own ends.

Among the exciting and brain-challenging stories we have run on this subject were:

(1) Correspondence of Solomon de Rothschild to his family in Europe during a check-out of family flunkies in the U.S. on the eve of the Civil War.

(2) Candlestick Johnny — The Councillor's original research into the strange activities of Louisiana's Senator John Slidell, before, after and during the Civil War. He worked for the Rothschilds, and was related by marriage to (a) Angie Schoenberg alias A. Belmont, and (b) afterward to the d'Erlanger branch of the Rothschild financial apparatus.

(3) Numerous explosive stories on Angie Schoenberg, the Rothschild's First Kissinger, who ran the Democratic Party in the North during the Civil War although he could hardly speak English, calling himself August Belmont.

(4) Stories on Carl Schultz, a sidekick of Karl Marx who came into the U.S. to help found the Republican Party, and who served the Rothschilds faithfully.

(5) Jackknife Benny — The Councillor's original research into the strange activities of Louisiana's Senator Judah Benjamin, who was a law partner of Slidell.

He appears to have been a Rothschild agent.

Did The Councillor just "dream up" such a theory of the origins of the Civil War? Or did others share the view?

Before any member of the staff of The Councillor was born, Conrad Seim printed in La Vieille France (March 1921) statements he said he obtained from Bismarck.

Bismarck, a German statesman (1815-1898) was pro-Christian during much of his lifetime. (See Treitschke, Deutsche Geschichte im xix Jahrh., 5:364).

Bismarck was quoted as saying, in part:

"The division of the United States into federations of equal force was decided long before the Civil War by the High Financial Power of Europe. These bankers were afraid that the United States, if they remained in one block and as one nation, would attain economical and financial independence, which would upset their financial domination over the world."

"The voice of the Rothschilds predominated. They foresaw tremendous booty if they could substitute two feeble democracies, indebted to the (Khar*) financiers, to the vigorous republic, confident and self-providing."

"Therefore they started their emissaries in order to exploit the question of slavery and thus to dig an abyss between the two parts of the Republic. Lincoln never suspected these underground machinations. He was anti-slavery and he was elected as such. But his character prevented him from being the man of one party. When he had affairs in his hands, he perceived that these sinister financiers of Europe, the Rothschilds, wished to make him the executor of their designs.

"They made the rupture between the North and the South imminent! The masters of finance in Europe made this rupture definitive in order to exploit it to the utmost. Lincoln's personality surprised them: They thought to easily dupe the candidate woodcutter. But Lincoln read their plots and soon understood that the South was not the worst foe, but the (Khar*) financiers. He did not confide his apprehensions; he watched the gestures of the Hidden Hand; he did not wish to expose publicly the questions which would disconcert the ignorant masses.

"He decided to eliminate the international bankers, by establishing a system of loans, allowing the states to borrow directly from the people without intermediary. He did not study financial questions, but his robust good sense revealed to him that the source of any wealth resides in the work and economy of the nation.

"He opposed emissions through the international financiers. He obtained from the Congress the right to borrow from the people by selling to it the 'bonds' of the states. The local banks were only too glad to help such a system. And the government and the nation escaped the plots of foreign financiers.

"They understood at once that the United States would escape their grip. The death of Lincoln was resolved upon. Nothing is easier than to find a fanatic to strike."

"The death of Lincoln was a disaster for Christendom. There was no man in the United States great enough to wear his boots..."

A Prediction

In the next paragraph of this "Bismarck Statement" was an amazing prediction. Whether Bismarck made it prior to his death in 1898, or whether it was a forgery, it nonetheless appeared in print 55 years ago. The prediction:

"I fear that the (Khar*) banks with their craftiness and tortuous tricks will entirely control the exuberant riches of America and will use it to systematically corrupt modern civilization. The (Kharzars*) will not hesitate to plunge the whole of Christendom into wars and chaos..."

(Editor's Note: For the sake of clarity, we have substituted the word "Kharzar" for the incorrectly translated terms "Jew" or "Jewish." Our reason is that we have learned from actual experience that beginning students confuse these latter terms with the Hebrews — an Old Testament people who have little, if any, blood relationship to the modern Kharzars. The Kharzars rejected Christianity and Mohammedism almost a thousand years after Christ's crucifixion and adopted a mercantile form of the old Babylonian Talmud as their code. The longest recorded genealogy of any of these people goes back no further than 1300, and it is questionable. They are a Turko-Finnish people, but with other adulterations of their bloodstream ranging from the Nordic conquerors of the Eastern Russia to the Nether Asiatics. They call themselves "Ashkenazis" as opposed to the Semitic-looking Talmudists who call themselves "Sephardics." Infiltration of denominational headquarters has prostituted a great deal of Christian literature into a denial of Bible history, and the false equation of Kharzars with Hebrews. We do not wish to contribute to this mockery of the scriptures and therefore try to use more exact terms.)

MY LIFE AND WORK

Henry Ford, despite the activities of his descendants, was a builder and a scholar. He took the time from his busy schedule to try to learn something of the world about him, and of mysterious forces which seemed to control the governments of men.

In 1922 Henry Ford wrote this autobiography. In it, he stated "The genius of the United States of America is Christian in the broadest sense, and its destiny is to remain Christian." He discussed the severe challenge to Christian leadership. For his honesty, he paid dearly.

PATRIOTS SHOULD NOT NEGLECT THEIR OWN PURSES

Some of the brightest people we have ever known had almost no money or property.

Unfortunately few of their fellow citizens would listen to them. It is a sad commentary on our times that a successful businessman who knows nothing about world conditions can get an audience easily—at civic clubs, church groups, almost anywhere.

Too many good patriots have lost their influence by neglecting their purse. That is the main reason The Councilor emphasizes money matters; we are not as materialistic as we may sound. We just happen to think that the wonderful people in this nation who have the good sense to defend the Free Enterprise system should be the ones to share greatest in its fruits. We also know that they can multiply their influence by using what they know to provide financial security for themselves and their families.

Word Clues Suggest Ancient Crossings of the Atlantic

MERIDA, Yucatan — Previously in this series we have pointed out that some of the words in the Pre-Columbian languages of Central America were the same as words in the ancient Greek, and had the same meanings.

It is possible that the Greeks were among the European nations which had contact with Central America long before Columbus.

At first we dismissed as fanciful the theory that the Maya took their name from the Greek goddess Maia, wife of Pan.

(1) At Panuco, or Panca, the Spaniards found upon their earliest visits to Mexico superb temples and images of Pan. The place name means literally "city of Pan."

(2) The ancient capital of the Maya was called "Mayapan." Could this be a combination of the two Greek names?

(3) Brasseur de Bourbourg claimed evidence that Pan was adored in all parts of Central America and Mexico.

(4) Diego de Landa in 1562 commented upon this subject. Some of this information is found in "Relacion de las Cosas de Yucatan," published in Paris, 1864.

(5) According to Professor John T. Short, the word "pan" or "pani" in the Nahuatl language of pre-Columbian Mexico means "equality to that which is above."

(6) Short claimed also that the term "Pentecost" meant "progenitor of all beings."

Certainly the worship of Pan—if he was one of the Maya's gods as well as one of the Greek gods—was not an all-consuming religion of the North American Indians. There were many other gods and idols among them.

HERE IS A PROVEN WAY TO SAVE MONEY ON GASOLINE PASER ALSO EXTENDS LIFE OF YOUR ENGINE

Gasoline is already selling for upwards of 50 cents per gallon. Prospects of an increase are great. The government is talking about 75 cent and 85 cent gas. If and when gasoline gets above 60 cents a gallon we will not be able to meet the demand for Paser Magnum gas-saving devices.

But if gas were selling for only 20 cents a gallon you should

1. Your car's engine wastes 35% - 50% of all the gasoline you buy.
2. The residual raw gas, carbon and smog pollute your engine - pollute the air and cost you hundreds of dollars a year in operating costs.
3. The solution to this problem is to burn more of the gasoline in your engine.
4. Detroit says this problem cannot be solved without costly, power robbing changes. In February, 1970, the Russians announced they had developed an engine that reduced smog and gave increased power and mileage by burning more of the gasoline in the engine.
5. It may be years before Detroit is forced to give you a better, clean burning engine—but why wait!

Through the miracles of space age science, PASER MAGNUM is here today.

Does your engine start instantly? Idle smoothly? Leap when you touch the gas pedal?... give good gas mileage? ... real passing power and acceleration; ... Nobody loves an engine that spits or stalls, vibrates, misses or pings. There's no pleasure in driving such a car. ...Digs big holes in your pocketbook, too.

Let's fact it ... Gas engines are a long way from perfect. New developments are coming fast, but Paser Magnum is here NOW. Proven by hundreds of thousands of actual driven miles in all kinds of vehicles. There's nothing like it. It's entirely new, a product of your space age.

More than five years ago, The Councilor knew of the coming "gasoline shortage" in America.

That is why in 1971 we became especially interested in a simple little invention that could be attached to cars to make gasoline burn more economically. We had heard of a half dozen or more such devices in the past which worked; the patents for some of these were bought up or they were otherwise suppressed.

But we knew who had the patents on the new gas saver device, the Paser Magnum. Furthermore, we knew the device worked because we placed it on cars and tested them.

We ran advertisements in The Councilor for Pasers after the success with these tests. And now, two years later, we are selling all the 8 cylinder Pasers we can get, and almost all the 4 cylinder and 6 cylinder Pasers we can get.

LASTS INDEFINITELY

AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR PRAISES PASER

"During the past couple of years, there have been numerous occasions when material has been offered on new and revolutionary products designed to improve the automobile. ...Just to see, we've made our 1968 Ford Galaxie something of a test car. ...One of the items tested was the Paser Magnum. ...Our Ford gave 12.3 miles per gallon before...13.8 miles per gallon with the Paser Magnum. ...The car seemed to start better too."

The Paser Magnum can be added in a couple of minutes even if you're not mechanically inclined. One can't discount the value of these items just because they aren't standard items on your Detroit car. Said one veteran observer: "Sometimes you have to beat the manufacturers on the head for years before they'll add a valuable part."

EXECUTIVE EXCITED ABOUT SAVINGS

"I am particularly impressed over the fact that this unit will permit you to use "regular" gas in lieu of "premium" or high octane gas. This creates a savings from 4 cents to 10 cents per gallon. If you use premium gas now, you will find the same performance with regular after the PASER MAGNUM has been installed. If you now use regular gas in your car, you will note in the literature, they "guarantee mileage increase," along with other important benefits. How can you lose?"

So You Really Believe That Censors Aren't Active?

By Ned Touchstone
HOUSTON—Just because you can see an X-rated movie or buy pornography at the corner drugstore, don't think the censor is dead.

He's alive and thriving. He works double-time for the little gang of imposters who are trying to erase America's traditions, glory, good will, honor, integrity and search for Truth.

Songs are being rewritten.

History—already badly warped by lazy PhDs looking for a quick textbook buck—has been bent to an unrecognizable configuration. Books have been taken from public libraries and school libraries.

Literature has been expunged of facts and traditions. Even school mascots have been ousted if they don't fit into the politically acceptable pattern.

You may naively believe that such censorship and revisionism are evident only in the Soviet Union and Castro's Cuba or in the boondocks of our "new ally"—Red China. Think again. It's going on around you.

In Virginia—for instance—the state song is "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia." It has been a traditional song of good will and its only mention of black people was a kindly use of the word "darkie."

So, what happened? In a monumental display of smallness, pettiness, and kowtowing to the NAACP, Governor Linwood Holton in 1970 asked that the traditional state song be re-written to conform with NAACP propaganda.

Federal judges have ordered several high schools in the South to quit displaying the Confederate Flag. Any other flag—including flags of enemy nations

Several schools using the "Rebel" emblem as mascot have been ordered to quit using such a tradition.

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES OF A HOME BASED BUSINESS

If you have a home based business, or if you are considering one, then you should compile a list of reasons. These reasons can be very persuasive. Here is a list of such reasons, but it is by no means a complete list. The order of importance varies from person to person.

1. More tax deductions. With careful planning you can buy with deductible dollars some of the goods, services and pleasures which you now purchase with more expensive non-deductible dollars. (We show you how!)

2. More income. Although this is secondary with most people who operate a home-based business to supplement their other incomes, it is of great importance to those who must have the dollars from such an operation. (We show you how!)

3. Travel. With proper planning you can go almost anywhere on a trip that not only pays for itself, but gives you additional tax deductions.

4. Fun. Not all home-based businesses provide fun, but with guidance you can put more fun into what you are doing, or add lines of endeavor which will give you great pleasure. (We show you how!)

5. Wholesale Buying. If you are in a home-based business, you will have almost as many opportunities to buy other products at wholesale as do the owners of big retail stores. (We show you how!)

6. Mobility. Some—but not all—home-based businesses let you set your own hours and permit you to close up and go to conventions or on buying trips whenever you wish. (We will try to be helpful in making such plans.)

7. Meeting New People. If you are tired of seeing the same old faces and hearing the same old whines, broaden your horizons! Depending upon what type of home-based business you choose, you will meet new people in your home town. (In addition we will introduce you at Free Enterprise seminars and Product Conventions to other Go-Getters like yourself.)

8. Group Travel Discounts. If you don't already have a way to fly to Europe, Hawaii, the Caribbean or to points in the U.S. at low, low group fares, then you will want to join with others like you. Together, you can make those trips for far less money than alone. (We show you how!)

9. Understanding Money. Less than 1% of the American people actually understand money. Just opening a home-based business will be insufficient for you to discover and comprehend the secrets of interplay between "money" and "wealth," bartering, fractional reserve philosophy, margin, discounting, front-end loads, depreciation and appreciation, etc. But by having such a business you will likely comprehend that there is a magic world of currency maneuvering which can multiply your own wealth and purchasing power through strategy. (If and when you get to that half-way point, we will show you in simple language the step-by-step methods whereby one small merchant becomes substantially wealthy and another just "gets by" on the same amount of directionless effort.)

10. Own a bigger home or fix up the present one with tax deductible dollars. (We show you how—whether or not your customers actually come to your home in large numbers. Most home-based businesses take their products or services to the buyer, or use mails, but some actually are part-time retail establishments. Either way, you win!)

11. Own more cars or better cars. With a home-based business, your car usually becomes a "tool" of your trade and you can therefore step up to a better model, or add one or more additional cars. (We show you how!)

12. Motel and restaurant savings. Did you know that operation of a home-based business can, in many instances, give you special privileges and discounts on those fun trips as well as on purely business trips? (We'll show you how!)

13. Better rapport with your children. Parents who own home-based businesses usually enjoy a closer relationship with their children. Children are less likely to grow up as Socialists or Anarchists who hate parents and thumb their noses at Honor, Thrift and Integrity. You are with your children more, and they learn to appreciate you. (We can't rear your children for you but we can pass along some wonderful and inspiring examples.)

14. More funds for college. Not only will you have more tuition money by virtue of your larger income, but you can use a simple and completely legal device to transfer tax deductible dollars to a son or daughter at college. (We'll show you how. The man who prepared this part of the plan was so successful with it that his son sometimes sends home several hundred dollars per month!)

15. Prepare realistically for latter years.

Everywhere we see heartbreak and disappointment amongst people who worked 20, 30 or 40 years for a "pension" which now has only a fraction of its promised value, because of inflation. We know that inflation will further erode and destroy the paper dollar. With a home-owned business you will always be self sufficient, but we will take you a step further. We will show you how to get on the winning side of inflation. (One of our tenets: No matter the direction of the tide or winds, they always favor the properly trained navigator.)

16. Open up a whole new world. With a home-based business, you can convert your life to drudgery, on the one hand. Or, with proper planning, you can open up a whole new world of fun, fellowship and financial fortresses. (It's our job to help enrich life, and if you get your kicks from tripping over your lower lip, we don't want you. But if you like adventure and the finer things of life, you belong on our crew. Welcome Aboard.)

17. Learn the secrets of banking. Understanding money and wealth will prepare you for the next important step, should you desire to move to even higher financial echelons. You can learn the secrets of banking. In fact, we can tell you—and show you—secrets about banking methods, banking strengths and banking weaknesses that even most bankers don't know. During a recent money crunch, we saw one of our friends borrow money from a bank at 8% and lend the same money back to the same bank three days later at 11%. He enjoyed the laugh almost as much as he enjoyed the profit. (If you are interested in learning these secrets, they will be opened up for you.)

Perhaps the most important service we can perform for the members of our association is one that they least expect to receive. Most Americans, whether in business or not, live in constant fear of the IRS. We can't remove all this fear, but we can cut it down to size by showing you how to protect yourself from IRS, what to do to minimize the impact of an audit, and how to "inspire" IRS agents to leave you alone. (One of our instructor-owners is author of the very successful publication entitled "How To Protect Yourself From The IRS".)

Life is just a little richer for everyone when good Americans understand how to harness dragons.

This is Probably the Most Productive $25.00 You Will Ever Invest!

In spite of its lofty purpose, membership in the NAHBB would not help you personally if we could not enrich your life and/or save you more than the nominal cost of membership. In fact, we don't want you (a) if you are an incurable noper, or (b) if we can't bring a rich metallic link to your pockets. Personal benefits of membership should be worth thousands of dollars to you if you have ambition and an I.Q. of 110 or more. You will also get a copy of the new summary publication in the A. Patrick Henry series, entitled "Tax Saving Tips for Home Based Businesses." In just a few pages you will find information on how to start your business, or use an existing business for those badly-needed tax exemptions. You will save hundreds—even thousands—of tax dollars for your own use by following these step-by-step completely legal procedures. You will also get a no-nonsense bookkeeping method and sample forms designed to reduce the paperwork. Plus discounts, travel opportunities, insurance savings if you want them. Conventions and seminars with like-minded people. A chance to really do something for your country and for yourself. As a charter member you will get certain surprise benefits from the program that will provide you an opportunity to recover your $25 membership fee (for 1978) many, many, many times.

extremely difficult to find an un-expurgated copy of the Magna Carta today. It is mentioned in textbooks and history books, but key provisions are never cited out of deference to ADL types.

The United States Constitution is omitted from many school texts today. Perhaps it is because pupils will notice that the first, fourth, fifth and fourteenth amendments are regularly violated by the federal government itself. Perhaps it is because the fourteenth amendment guarantees that white people will have the same rights to jobs, promotions, grants and privileges as colored people — a guarantee that is violated before their eyes. Perhaps it is because the Constitution originally outlawed any such tax system as the federal income tax, or that in the beginning the Constitution counted colored slaves as being equivalent to 3/5ths of a free white person, for purposes of the census.

Remember the little book which we read in Grammar School entitled "Little Black Sambo"? It referred to a youngster and tigers in India. But for some idiotic reason or another, this innocent little fable has been expurgated from literature in many parts of the country.

Remember the sweet old song, "Moonlight Bay"? It's been rewritten to erase the reference to "darkies singing."

The censor slipped up a few weeks ago, however, when the post office issued a series of bi-centennial stamps depicting the flags of 50 states. The Georgia flag and the Mississippi flag each reproduce the Confederate Stars & Bars as part of their official emblem. If the censor had chopped these two offenders, there would have been a very touchy problem, because the Hawaii state flag reproduces the Union Jack used by soldiers of George III.

How about Huckleberry Finn? It's been censored to rename Mark Twain's "Nigger Jim" as "Big Jim."

It is forbidden for daily newspapers to print stories which discuss the stupidity or other lack of qualification of some of the colored school teachers in tax-supported public schools. There's no federal law on the subject, but the ax falls on any daily which dares to report criticism of black teachers — even if it gives equal space to those who glorify such black teachers.

Example: The Shreveport Journal recently dared to report the views of eight school principals who complained that many of their black teachers — hired under federal court order — had flunked the subjects that they were hired to teach. The principals reported — honestly — that pupils in such classes often knew more about the subject than their teachers and that this is one of the reasons that students are being graduated with inadequate education.

After the Journal dared mention the forbidden subject — although it gave even more space to the "other side," — it was attacked by civil rights leaders and professional black agitators. They held public meetings to plan a boycott of advertisers in the paper which dared tell a part of the truth!

One colored lawyer — on the public payroll as president of a tax-supported university — threatened to get a federal judge to issue a gag rule against the Journal. Here we have a man sworn to uphold the law and presumably trained in the law, willfully agitating to bring about a violation of the First Amendment!

Speaking of censorship, do you remember what happened to John Schmidt when he ran for president four years ago on the American Party ticket? The networks knew that if they gave proper and fair treatment to Mr. Schmidt and the American Party, that the party would grow as a realistic alternate to the Democratic Party. So they almost completely ignored Schmidt and the American Party! Most Americans never even knew that they had an alternative.

Another form of censorship is demonstrated by magazines and networks in their hatred for the late Senator Joseph McCarthy. They continually deride the long-dead patriot and imply that Senator McCarthy was an untruthful man. But they never repeat any of the senator's truthful predictions and truthful revelations, so the public has no way of fairly judging what the man had to say.

This is the most vicious of all forms of censorship because it is a "secondary censorship." The purpose is not necessarily to SYMBOLIZING BROKEN DREAMS is this abandoned rural home in Oklahoma. Without the fervor of Free Enterprise activity by America's great middle income "class", this is a picture of America's tomorrow.

Neither Socialism, nor its handmaiden — Monopoly Capitalism — offers America anything but despair. But with a broad-based Free Enterprise offering opportunity and better tax breaks for Middle America, our nation can enjoy a prosperity beyond the scope of poet's fancy.

create hatred of McCarthy, because he is no longer a threat to the interlopers. But by smearing the memory of Senator McCarthy over and over and over, they are getting the message across to other congressmen and senators. The message: "You, too, could die a mysterious death and your name would become synonymous with falsehood and hysteria if we chose to make it such — so that your children and your grandchildren would suffer in the generations to come."

The name of Jesus Christ is not to be mentioned in a friendly fashion in the public schools today. That is forbidden. But it is okay to make false claims in behalf of Martin Luther King or Malcolm X, because their liquidations converted them to martyr symbolism for the very assassins who did them in.

Before you read this issue of The Councillor, had you ever heard that James Earl Ray had a contact number in New Orleans? Had you been permitted to read that the number was allegedly that of a controversial part of the Louisiana State police which since 1967 has operated as a philosophic extension of the New Orleans ADL? Had you been permitted by the daily newspapers in your city to learn that ADL leaders in New Orleans raised the money to pay for the assassination of a white school teacher in Mississippi, Kathy Ainsworth?

How about Martin Luther King's used car theft ring? Only a few daily papers, the Congressional Record and The Councillor ran that tremendous story before it was shut up.

Or the Treason Highway built across Asia as a joint effort of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Russian Army? Were you allowed to read about it in your daily paper?

And Cointelpro? How long were the federal interlopers able to keep from you the fact that your tax money was being used for dirty tricks designed to create hatred between the races and to promote race-mixing as a political movement?

If traditional old state songs are to be rewritten to conform to the new false culture, then here is a cleansed version of the Virginia state song:
"Carry me back to de new Virginia,
Dere's where you buy acid,
grass and snow.
Dere's where we Bloc-Vote in Springtime,
Dere's where dis Afro-American militant longs to go."

Oil Crisis in America! Is it Real?

If it isn't, it should be! We throw away millions of barrels of oil every day, just drain it out of a crankcase and throw it away! Yet most people know that oil does not wear out. It just gets dirty. Until now you had no choice, you either changed oil or ruined your engine.

Well, not anymore. You can install a Sauna oil refining system right on your vehicle. The Sauna will remove the water, acid, and fuel dilution in its dry air chamber and filter out solid particles down to 5 microns in the filtering chamber.

With good clean oil in your engine it should last from 2 to 3 times longer.

And since the oil never gets dirty or contaminated it virtually eliminates the need to ever change oil again.

- Cars • Trucks
- Diesel Engines
- Fishing Vessels
- Stationary Engines

Sauna Oil Re-refiners are designed to fit any combustion engine regardless of crank case capacity. For full details write:

Declaration of Independence is Obsolete to 124 Congressmen

PHILADELPHIA — A delegation of 10 congressmen, representing 92 House members and 32 senators, signed a "Declaration of INTERdependence" during ceremonies at Independence Hall here, brushing off shouts of "traitor" and "Tory" from 200 citizens on the streets outside.

The document, a parody of the language in the Declaration of Independence, signed 200 years ago in the same room, calls for "...one global community, dependent on one body of resources, bound together by ties of common humanity and associated in a common adventure on the planet Earth."

The declaration of INTERdependence is promoted by the World Affairs Council and other groups favoring global government. A formal call for interdependence is planned for July 4, 1976, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The INTERdependence Declaration asserts that "to establish a new world order of compassion, justice and security, it is essential that mankind free itself from the limitations of national prejudice ... that all people are part of one global community."

Author of the preamble was Dr. Henry Steele Commager, a well-known, left-leaning historian.

News of the incident has been minimized in the nation's press. Stories did not appear in either the "Washington Post" or the "New York Times." The Philadelphia "Inquirer" gave it front-page story and photo space in reaction to the citizen protests led by evangelist Dr. Carl McIntire, who told the crowd through a bullhorn:

"The next in order will be a Declaration of Dependence — surrender."

When former Sen. Joseph Clark began to read the names of the INTERdependence signers in Congress, an elderly woman rose in the balcony to protest. "You are traitors," she shouted.

"Take her away, take her away, Clark screamed, and a gang of National Park Rangers removed her. "This is a Communist state," said the woman, Catherine Brown, 82 of Cherry Hill, N.J. "We don't have Patrick Henry any more." "Those who oppose change will not be able to change our determination to move forward," Clark said as the woman was taken away.

Promoters of one-world government are using bicentennial events as part of the continuing campaign to condition public opinion. The Atlantic Union Committee and other groups have publicly called for the U.S. to surrender national sovereignty to a "Federal Atlantic Union" during the past 200 years. They call it an essential "first step" toward world government (NATIONAL SPOTLIGHT, Sept. 24, 1975).

This is of the greatest importance to the American people. It reveals that here are men willing to surrender the integrity of the nation's independence and sovereignty.

People are raising questions concerning the loyalty of these men to their oath of office. To swear to maintain and defend the Constitution of the United States as all have done and then sign a document that calls for the incorporation of the United States in some form of world superstate involves a conflict. The entire list is as follows:

New Sermons Will Help You Tell If Your Preacher Is Misfit

Key Reds have passed down the signals that Martin Luther King is to be glorified from the pulpit of white churches.

Overwhelming evidence exists that shows (1) That King was financed by Soviet Agents and by International Bankers; (2) That King attended the Communist Training School at Montague, Tenn.; (3) That King was a liar; (4) That King spread hatred and violence wherever he went, although Reds branded him falsely as an apostle of non-violence; (5) That King's organization ran a massive car theft ring out of Atlanta, Ga.; and (6) That King was surrounded by Red agents up until the day he was liquidated by other revolutionists.

If the minister of your church uses one of those sermon outlines and tries to glorify Martin Luther King, then mark him down as either (A) a conscious agent of revolution, or (B) stupid. In either case, any preacher who would profane the pulpit with such tripe is an absolute Misfit and should be dismissed from his job as quickly as possible.
